

JIAS

Actuvirtual Symposium at the Johannesburg Institute for Advanced Study

'Affective Justice: The International Criminal Court and the Pan-Africanist Pushback'

Is law the only possible way to imagine justice? What is affective justice? Is it a failure if we attempt to bring about a fusion between legal justice and affective justice? How are we to understand the intimate relation between law and politics in the twentieth and twenty-first century? Must the International Criminal Court remain the most authoritative (global) institution to understand political violence in the continent of Africa? Must the survivors of state violence in the continent of Africa be indebted to the International Criminal Court for its promise of justice? In this Actuvirtual Symposium we discuss Professor Kamari Clarke's influential book, Affective Justice: The International Criminal Court and the Pan-Africanist Pushback (DUP 2019).

DATE ▪ 26 May 2022

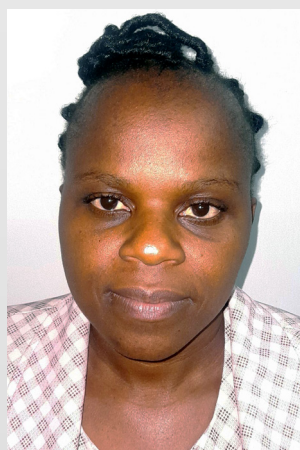

TIME ▪ 17:00 – 19:00 (SAST)

RSVP on <https://forms.gle/UQdF8XK13JxMUK9A8> to receive the Zoom details.

Email vanessak@uj.ac.za if you encounter problems.

CONVENER
Fazil Moradi
*Visiting Associate Professor,
Faculty of Humanities,
JIAS, University of
Johannesburg*

Evelyne Owiye Asaala
*PhD
Lecturer
University of Nairobi*

Kamari Clarke
*Professor
University of Toronto*

Tendayi Sithole
*Professor
University of South Africa & JIAS*

Hannibal Travis
*Professor
Florida International University*